I, JENNY YU, declare as follows:

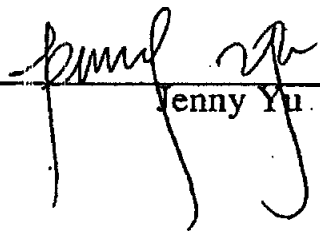

1. My name is Jenny Yu and I am a student at University of California Berkeley.

2. I was interested in signing up as a student for the TestMasters LSAT preparation course in Berkeley and as an auditor in the TestMasters LSAT preparation course in Irvine. However, I heard a rumor from my friend, Susan Yoon, that TestMasters was going out of business.

3. I later did some research on the internet and called TestMasters and learned that they are not going out of business. If I had not made the effort to further investigate, I never would have found out that TestMasters is still in business.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct.
